

TO GIVE DEATH BLOW TO BILL

Republicans Determined Not to Allow Legislation Compelling Publicity.

MONUMENT TO POCAHONTAS

Maynard Raises Hornets' Nest About His Ears—Senate and Jamestown.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 28.—The Republicans are determined that there shall be no legislation this session compelling publicity in the matter of campaign contributions. The Democrats are eager for the enactment of such a law, especially so in view of the disclosures concerning the contributions of insurance companies and other corporations to the Republican campaign fund in 1904.

The House Committee on the Election of President and Vice-President had before it early in the session a bill introduced by Representative McCall, of Massachusetts, a Republican, providing for publicity in the matter of contributions to campaign funds. The bill had the approval of the National Publicity Bill Organization, of which Mr. Perry Belmont, of New York, a former member of the House of Representatives, and a Democrat, the connection of Mr. McCall, a Republican, and Mr. Belmont, a Democrat, with the bill gave assurance that it was not partisan in character. Many of the members of the congressional campaign committees of the two parties had expressed themselves as being heartily in favor of Mr. McCall's bill.

It is an established fact that not a single member of the House Committee was opposed to the principle of the bill when it was introduced.

Republicans Shy.
The first hearing on the bill was largely attended, and prominent Democrats, as well as Republicans, advocated its passage. Bourke Cockran addressed the committee in its favor, so did Mr. Belmont, and so did ex-Senator William E. Chandler, whose Republicanism is of the sort that may be best described by the phrase "dyed in the wool."

At subsequent meetings of the committee the Republicans developed a most pronounced shyness of the question, while the Democrats warmed up to the proposition. It soon became difficult to get a quorum of the committee, owing to the absence of Republican members. Turners of the faculty character of the McCall bill became prevalent, and to meet these Republican objections, Judge Tucker, of Missouri, a member of the committee, drew a bill, and it was referred to the Committee on the Election of President and Vice-President. This bill contained the added provision that contributions to campaign funds should be made public before as well as after elections. There was considerable dawdling over this bill. The committee, ordinarily one of the most important of the standing committees of the House, finding with that to which are referred matters pertaining to the election and acoustics, had, for the first time in years, a really important measure before it, but it would not consider it.

Chairman Obdurate.
Finally, it was announced by the chairman of the committee, Representative Joseph H. Gaines, of West Virginia, that he would introduce a measure designed to accomplish the things which the other publicity bills did not achieve. He introduced his bill. It took in everything for which money might be used in an election, involving offices from the President down to election of justices of the peace in State campaigns. The Democrats, in order to get some action by the committee, agreed to vote to report the Gaines bill, with the understanding that they should have the right to offer a substitute on the floor of the House. But Mr. Gaines was obdurate. He would not allow his own bill to be reported, and though he and his Republican colleagues on the committee have been importuned incessantly by the Democrats to get some sort of bill before the House, they have refused until the present time.

It was the refusal of the committee to take any action whatever that caused Judge Tucker to bring his conduct to the attention of the House. When the House was sitting in committee of the whole on the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, he made a lively speech on the subject, in which he raked the Republicans of the committee for and aft. Mr. Tucker was proceeding to give a story of the repeated efforts to get the Republicans to do something, even with their own bill, when he was called to order for infringement of the rule against detailing matters which took place in the committee room. But the Missouriian very cleverly evaded the ruling of the chair by venturing to prophesy as to how each member of the committee would vote if the bill should ever come up in the House.

Poor Case.
Chairman Gaines attempted to justify the conduct of the committee. He ridiculed the McCall and Tucker bills, but made only passing reference to his own measure, which he has all along refused to allow the committee to report. His speech was a very lame defense of the course of the Republicans of the committee.

He had a very poor case, of course, but those who have heard him speak before agree they never heard him make so poor a speech as that in which he tried to defend the course of his party. He wanted to see enacted a law against the wholesale corruption of voters by means of enormous campaign funds.

Representative Chaney, of Indiana, introduced a bill to-day appropriating ten thousand dollars for the erection of a monument to Pocahontas at Jamestown, in connection with the exposition. The bill provides that the money shall be paid to C. C. Glover, of this city, treasurer of the Pocahontas Memorial Association.

Raised Hornets' Nest.

Representative Maynard has raised a hornets' nest about his ears by a bill which he introduced some days ago providing for the sale of Craney Island, in Norfolk harbor, to the general government. The citizens of Norfolk are said to be indignant over the bill.

"I have a special interest in the measure," said Mr. Maynard to-day. "It was drawn by a constituent of mine, and I simply introduced it by request. I am not pressing the bill and will not do so. There is objection on the part of farmers near Craney Island to the use of the island as a pethouse by the city, and the bill was drafted by a man who lives on the mainland not far from the island."

The Senate Committee on Expositions will consider the Jamestown appropriation bill to-morrow, and will probably report it favorably to the Senate. The Senate is in favor of the appropriation to the exposition and there is a quite general belief that the appropriation will finally be secured through the initiative of that body, probably by the adoption of an amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill when it is sent over by the House.

Sollicit Intervention.

"We send a copy of this resolution to His Excellency, Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, and to the Honorable Secretaries of State and War, and publish it as a fly-sheet."

Council Denounced.

The municipal council of Colon held a session yesterday, at which the following resolution was adopted:
"Resolved, That we protest in the name of our constituents against the unpatriotic conduct of the municipal council of Panama in assuming an attitude involving functions of national representations and soliciting the intervention of a foreign power in the internal affairs of this country, to the detriment of the security of this republic."

"Resolved, That this resolution be published as a fly-sheet, and that copies be sent to His Excellency, the President of the Republic, the secretary of government and the secretary of foreign relations."
(Signed) "M. GRENALEDO, President."

The preamble to the foregoing resolutions asserts that the municipal council of Panama (represented by the above resolution) is assuming the functions of a foreign power in the internal affairs of this country, and that if other municipal councils in the republic did not notice such a strange proceeding their silence would be regarded as tacit assent to the revolutionary principle proclaimed.
The preamble included with the declaration that the government of the United States alone possesses the authority to preserve public order in this country, an authority derived from the canal treaty and the constitution of Panama, both of which had been approved by the vote of the legitimate representatives of the na-

REVOLUTION IN GUATEMALA NOW

Foreigners Much Alarmed at the Force Being Displayed by Insurgent Leaders.

(By Associated Press.)
MEXICO CITY, May 28.—Revolutionary troops have crossed the Guatemalan border from the north and from Salvador and Honduras. They are well armed and equipped. The stated object of these expeditions is to Americanize Guatemala.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 28.—Guatemala is threatened with a revolution which may endanger American interests in the republic, according to dispatches received at the State Department to-day from Minister Comba and forwarders. The dispatches concern the Guatemalan railway and dock property in Guatemala. The scene of the trouble is in the northern part of the republic, near the Mexican frontier, but the trouble is in Guatemala. It is being caused by the revolutionists in such numbers that foreigners with property interests in the republic are being alarmed. Unrest has prevailed in the little republic for some time, and the State Department has had intimations from time to time that an extraordinary movement might be expected.

CASTRO RETIRES BUT HOLDS STRING

Believed He Will Resume Presidency of Venezuela After a While.

(By Associated Press.)
CAPE HAYTIAN, May 28.—President Castro on May 28 issued a long manifesto, in which, after referring to the measures taken by the present administration to prevent citizens from acclaiming him, he said he had no desire to avoid possible political abuse, adding: "I at once declare my determination to retire absolutely from political affairs, continuing only as a loyal and sincere friend of the Venezuelans, serving as a tie of union between them."

On the same day President Castro attended a national celebration at Victoria, province of Aragua, where the masses besought him to recall his manifesto and continue in the presidency. President Castro replied:

"When all citizens of the republic think and request as do the noble people of Aragua, I shall gladly return to the Federal Capitol."

The general opinion is that President Castro holds the threads of the situation and will after a while resume the presidency.
